MAN CHARGED WITH ROBBERY AT F. G. HELD

Sheriff Risley Finds Suspect is in Trouble in Other Cities

Sheriff Elliott C. Risley returned home Monday evening from Beloit, Wis., where he with five other sheriffs from northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin sought to secure custody of Emil Kunz, alias Joe Giovino, who was believed to have been implicated with others in the burglarizing of the Franklin Grove Service garage and theft of a Willys-Knight touring car on the night of Sept. 4. The prisoner was held by the Beloit authorities pending further action and is under bonds of $10,000.

Sheriff Risley, accompanied to Beloit by Deputy Sheriff George Banning of Oregon, Sheriff Ross Atkinson and his deputy Harry Baldwin, of Rockford, all seeking the custody of the prisoner. Kunz is alleged to have disposed of a stolen car recently to a farmer residing near Polo. An account of the capture of the prisoner is contained in last evening's issue of The Beloit Daily News, as follows:

A man hunt which has extended over several months ended Saturday in Evansville when Chief of Police Fred Gilman arrested Emil Kunz, wanted in several cities in northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin for various alleged offenses.

Kunz came near to being lodged in the jail at Janesville earlier in the summer, but as the police car, in which he was riding, was rounding a corner he jumped out, and that is the last time he has been seen in the Bower city to the knowledge of police until Saturday. This time he is being held in the custody of the sheriff. Knowing the daring which Kunz has the sheriff's force is paying particular attention to see that he does not attempt to break jail.

Set Ball at $10,000.

When Kunz was arraigned before Judge H. L. Maxfield Saturday afternoon on charges of transportation and possession of intoxicating liquor, carrying concealed weapons, and as a suspect in an Illinois robbery, his bail was set at $10,000. His bail has a serious mistake. If it was not for the fact that Kunz made his apparent desire to be known as some one besides himself he might have paid a fine for his alleged violation of the liquor law and been on his way.

Picks Wrong Alias.

But Emil decided he was an Italian and adopted the name of Joseph Giovino, Rockford, brother of Paul Giovino, who is under arrest on the charge of being implicated in the robbery of the Spoor General store in Byron, Ogle county, Illinois.

Evansville police notified Rockford authorities that they had Joe Giovino locked up. The slip came when Joe failed to keep himself from being seen by Rockford police. The fact that Joe was both in Rockford and Evansville at the same time looked suspicious to the Rockford officers.

A trip was made to Evansville and Joe Giovino was identified as none other than the elusive Emil Kunz. What will be done with Kunz has not been decided. Authorities are inclined to feel that he should be turned over to the city that desires him most, and there are several cities that desire him, including Monroe, Wis. His preliminary examination in the Janesville court has been set for September 25.

Companion Escapes.

The companion of Kunz had more luck than Emil, for he escaped, and police have not located him. Rockford officers have an idea as to whom the person may be. No arrests had been made at noon today.

In addition to placing Kunz under arrest Chief Gilman believes that he has broken up one of the main lines of liquor transportation between Illinois and Minnesota points. Eighteen gallons of moonshine, several suits of clothes, two revolvers and several pairs of trousers were found in the car Kunz was driving.

An effort will be made by Ogle county officers to identify the clothing as some of the loot taken from the Spoor General store. In the event the clothing is identified it is probable that Kunz will be turned over to Ogle county.

Resists Arrest.

Police believe that about the only thing Kunz owned when he was arrested was himself, and he even disclaimed ownership of his own name. The automobile he was in is alleged to have been stolen from Franklin Grove, Ill. The license plates on the car had been issued for a Ford car belonging to Harold Cross of Rockville, police say. The Cross car was reported stolen several weeks ago.

Kunz was well "heeled" when he was taken into custody, $700 being

New Record in Storm Losses this Summer, Says Insurance Man

The summer just closing has established a new high record for losses due to storms, according to the representative of one of the oldest farm insurance companies in this city today. Fires, the destruction of buildings blown down by high winds and loss of cattle struck by lightning or perishing in storms, are the leading losses.

BLAMES BARN DANCE FOR MANY DIVORCE CASES

Local Attorney Traces Differences to the Country Dances.

"Barn dances are the direct cause of more divorce cases than any other reason that has been given," was the statement made by a local attorney in the circuit court room yesterday afternoon after he had secured decrees for two of his clients.

The barrister who probably has more divorce matters to air in the court room than any of the other legal lights of the county, continued by saying:

"It may not appear on the face of the petition that the barn dance is the real cause, but back of it all, that is the outstanding reason. You can't blame a husband who has worked hard all day in some factory for finding fault when he comes home and his wife hurries out to a barn dance and comes back at an early hour in the morning. It seems that this becomes a habit and the first thing you know, the divorce action follows."

Contending that barn dances provide a bad atmosphere particularly for young married people, the attorney held that the condition was rapidly growing more serious. Each term of court, he stated, presented a greater number of petitions for divorce and separation which are traceable to barn dances and it was his opinion that in the majority of these cases where domestic differences arose from either the wife or husband's attendance at these affairs, that the divorce procedure was justified.

Son of Franklin Grove People Accident Victim (Telephone Special Service)

Franklin Grove, Sept. 16.—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith of this city received a message yesterday stating that their son, Courtney Smith, had been killed as the result of an automobile accident at Washington, D. C. The message gave no particulars and Mr. Smith left on an afternoon train for the capital to take charge of the remains which will be brought back to Franklin Grove. The young man was employed in the postal department at Washington.

BOOST PERSHING AS COMMANDER AMERICAN LEGION

Retired General of the Armies May Succeed
John R. Quinn.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
St. Paul, Sept. 16.—Dividing interest with the annual parade of the American Legion today was the visit of General Charles Daves, republican vice presidential candidate, who came here wholly as a Legionnaire to visit the legion's national convention.

Despite the insistence of the General and of Legion officials that the general came as Legionnaire Daves of the Evanston, Illinois post, his visit attracted most attention.

Business session activities this forenoon included addresses by Charles P. Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific Railway, Albert D. Alcorn, commander in chief of the Spanish War Veterans and John J. Tigert, U. S. commissioner of education.

Politics came to the fore sharply today with a well defined boom for General Pershing to succeed John R. Quinn of California as national commander. Legionnaires boosting him were reported telegraphing "feelers" to the commander of the A. E. F. in an effort to ascertain his attitude.

General Daves expressed a desire to participate in Legion convention activities as a member of his home post of Evanston, Illinois, and to avoid any appearance as a republican candidate for vice president while in St. Paul.

Merely A Legionnaire.

"I am here as a member of the Evanston post of the legion and not as a candidate for office," Mr. Daves explained. "As a mere member of the Legion I have no right in the reviewing and so I intend to hoof it with the rest of the boys from Evanston."

Mr. Daves was met by a reception committee designated by the convention and by Mayor Arthur E. Nelson on his arrival here and taken to the Minnesota Club where during the morning he received a number of the legion members including John R. Quinn, the national commander; Hanford MacNeider, former national commander and Alvin Owsley, another former national commander and himself a candidate for the democratic nomination for vice president at the New York convention.

Asked to discuss the political situation on his arrival here, Mr. Daves replied:

"This is no political trip. The Legion is a non-political organization and far be it from me to transgress on any of its founding principles. I'll talk politics and plenty of it next week when I visit Minnesota to speak at Minneapolis and St. Cloud."

Chiverton Near Death in Automobile Mishap

W. F. Chiverton of this city had a narrow escape from serious injury or death Monday morning while driving on state route No. 49, north of Sterling, when he was pinned beneath his automobile when it was overturned into a ditch beside the road after being struck by a Standard Oil Co. truck.

Mr. Chiverton's presence of mind in throwing himself flat on the seat, when he felt his car turning over, saved him from injury, for the car was very badly damaged.

When the Dixon man turned out to pass the oil truck the driver of the truck, evidently making up his mind to turn left into a farm house, started to make the turn without giving any signal and struck the Dixon car amidships, throwing it upside down into the ditch. Mr. Chiverton escaped with but a few bruises.

Big Railroads Seek to Issue Equipment Bonds

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Sept. 16.—The New York Central Railroad, the Michigan Central railroad and the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad, today asked authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue $20,955,000 of 4 1/2 per cent equipment certificates.

The proceeds would be used to purchase 58 locomotives, 49 passenger coaches, 27 dining cars, 23 combination passenger and baggage cars, 59 suburban coaches, 40 baggage cars, 250 refrigerator cars, 28 horse cars, 3,200 box cars, and 4,190 coal cars, the total cost of which would be $27,840,000.

Two Naturalized, Three Couples Were Divorced

The first day of the September term of the circuit court saw two natives of England made citizens of the United States and three homes broken up through divorce proceedings. William Platts of this city and Charles Hubert Chamberlain were granted their final naturalization papers by Judge Harry Edwards this morning.

PEKIN ARMY SENT TO AID ATTACK ON SHANGHAI, REPORT

Appeared in Battle on Sunday, Messenger from Front Says.

BULLETIN.
Tientsin, Sept. 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—Travelers from Urga, seat of the Mongolian government, arriving here today, declared that as a result of political upheavals there, a dozen foreign residents—American, British and Danish—are not permitted to leave the city.

The travelers also declared that Premier Danzan of Mongolia had been shot by order of the Mongol soviet, members of which are alleged to be plotting with the central Chinese government at Peking for the return of Mongolia to China.

Anxiety for welfare of several Americans believed to be in Mongolia has been expressed during the political troubles there in the past two weeks. Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, explorer who discovered dinosaur eggs in the Mongolian steppes, is believed among the Americans in the Manchurian center.

Diplomats stated they were unwilling to recognize the right of the Chinese government to bar foreigners from zones where fighting actually was going on, but were unwilling to assume responsibility for extending the prohibition to other parts of the beleaguered provinces.

Representatives of the British and American governments today officially informed the Chinese government that they could not accept the blanket prohibition of travel of their nationals in the provinces of Kiangsu, Chekiang, Anhwei and Kiangsi.

BULLETIN.

Shanghai, Sept. 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—Chang Tso Lin the Manchurian, war lord, has issued a proclamation, declaring his intention to make war against Tsao, president of China.

He has decided to proceed to Chinchow where he will assume command of all of his forces, a portion of which is reported to have crossed the frontier in the direction of Chaoyang. In view of this advance, an early clash is expected.

BULLETIN.

Peking, Sept. 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—Reports were received here today that Chihlian and Manchurian troops had clashed at Chaoyang, in northern Chihli, about 20 miles in an air line from the border of Manchuria.

No official confirmation of the reports has been forthcoming.

BULLETIN.

Shanghai, Sept. 16.—(10:50 p. m.) By the Associated Press.—Darkness failed to stop the fighting on the "Eastern" battle front in the vicinity of Shanghai tonight. The offensive of the Kiangsu armies seeking to capture the city continued.

BULLETIN.

Shanghai, Sept. 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—Re-inforcements from the Peking government to be thrown into battle against the Chihliang forces defending Shanghai, were reported at Wushu, 85 miles west of here at 11:45 p. m. Sunday, according to a messenger from the Kiangsu front who returned here today.

Shanghai, Sept. 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—Diverting their attention from Hing, 100 miles west of Shanghai, where a major engagement is in prospect, leaders in the armies of military governors fighting for possession of this city, carried their warfare to nearby towns today.

The invading Kiangsu forces were attempting to drive the Chihliang forces from Hing this morning in a battle which has for its objective the capture of the Wooming forts at the outer anchorage for Shanghai shipping.

Chang Tso Lin, war lord of Manchuria, was moving his troops southward to create a new battle front, with the forces of Wu Pei Fu, military head of the Peking government, at Shangkaiwan, a town on the border between Manchuria and Chihli Province in which fighting is located.

Sun Yat Sen, head of the government of South China, moved a small force northward to Shuechow today with the idea of aiding his friend Lu Yung Hsiang, Tschun of Chekiang Province and defender of Shanghai.

Fighting in the vicinity of Shanghai yesterday with machine guns as the principal weapons, resulted in the

FARMERS' INST. ASHTON, WALTON OCTOBER 7 AND 8

Interesting Programs at Meetings Planned for Next Month.

Plans are being made for the meeting of the Lee County Farmers' Institute to be held at Ashton and Walton on October 7 and 8. Meetings will be held in the afternoon and evening.

Good Speakers Scheduled

The ladies will be interested to know that Dr. Eva M. Wilson will be in attendance at both places, and will address the Household Science sessions. H. B. Green will discuss poultry during the afternoon at both places. Sam Crabtree of Florida, the popular speaker at the Lee County Farmer's Picnic will give the evening address at both Ashton and Walton.

Chas. W. Foss who spoke last year at the Farmers' Institute in this county will discuss dairying at both places during the afternoon. Edwin Day will talk on hog production during the afternoon at Ashton and Walton.

Local committees are being appointed to arrange for the institute session and it is expected that with the filling coming early this year there will be ample opportunity for farmers and their wives to attend the institute sessions.

Keeps the dates in mind and watch for further announcements through the county papers. For further information get in touch with Phillip Lyons, President, postoffice Harmon, telephone Dixon, or L. S. Griffith, Secretary at Amboy.

Lee County Dairymen to Plan Milwaukee Trip

A meeting of Lee County dairymen is called for Thursday evening, at the Farm Bureau office at Amboy to lay plans for an auto trip to the Dairy Exposition at Milwaukee, Sept. 29 to Oct. 30. All dairymen and others interested in attending the exposition are urged to attend and help plan for an auto trip to Milwaukee.

At the same meeting cow testing association work will be discussed. It is probable that H. E. Jamison of the Dairy Department will be in attendance at this meeting.

Six separate "Dairy Land Tours" have been arranged varying from 45 to 200 miles each. Stops will be made at Dairy Farms enroute to permit inspection of famous herds and other matters of interest.

Bowlers Meet Tonight to Form Tournament League

A meeting of bowlers from Dixon and vicinity has been called this evening at 8 o'clock at the Pastime alleys, at which time leagues will be formed for the fall-winter season. The Elks, Chamber of Commerce and the Knights of Columbus have already signified intention of putting teams in the field and several of the local business houses will be represented. The alleys now accommodate four alleys, one having been added during the summer and the other three having been completely overhauled.

About 20 heads of departments, managers and salesmen of the General Electric company of Chicago, the Edison Lamp Works of Chicago, the Sylvania Electric company, the Rockford Electric company of Rockford and the Western United Gas company of Aurora spent the week end in a most enjoyable outing at the Black Hawk cottages near Grand Detour. On Saturday, the campers motored to the Dixon Country Club, where they enjoyed the golf course.

ASK GOVERNOR TO SAVE 19 YEAR OLD MURDERER'S LIFE

Chief Witness Against Grant Repudiates Testimony.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Sept. 16.—Shortly before Bernard Grant, sentenced to hang Oct. 17 for murder, signed a petition to Governor Small pleading for clemency, his attorney Thomas E. Swanson, received a telegram today from Dr. Agnes Lewis of St. Cloud, Minn., stating that citizen of St. Cloud would petition the Illinois governor to spare Grant's life.

The movement to save Grant's life was started after Judge J. R. Caverly spared the lives of Nathall Leopold, Jr., and Richard Leeb, and sentenced them to life imprisonment for the murder of Robert Frank.

The petition which Grant's lawyer will mail to the Governor, probably tomorrow, will not be a sentimental appeal based on the action in the Leopold-Leeb case, but will cite the facts in the case that Walter Krauser, under a death sentence with Grant for the murder of Ralph Saunders, a policeman, had repudiated his first statement implicating Grant and now states that Grant had nothing to do with the holdup of a tea store in which Saunders was killed.

Grant claims he was 19 years old when the crime was committed—the same age as Leopold and Leeb. Krauser also asserts he is only 19. Grant's appeal to the supreme court was refused, and his only hope for escape, from the gallows is in the Governor's hands. Krauser has an appeal pending before the supreme court.

Grant is the son of a widow. He was reared in the district known as "Back of the Yards." It is not charged that he fired the fatal shot—that was charged against Krauser, but he was alleged to have participated. Krauser now says Grant had nothing to do with it.

President Devotes Time to Government Business

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Sept. 16.—Government business held the attention of President Coolidge today with the regular semi-weekly cabinet meeting in the morning and later conferences with other government officials.

Mr. Coolidge has received many callers during the past week and yesterday who have given him fairly detailed accounts of the political situation in most sections of the country. On the whole, the reports have been viewed by the White House as exceedingly bright, although they were said to have indicated some growing strength for Senator LaFollette, independent candidate, in several states.

Pending a check-up on these, the President has not outlined his program for next month in the way of speech making. He has "informed" friends, however, that he expected to stick pretty close to his desk during the campaign.

Expect LaFollette to Make Extended Stumping Journey

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Sept. 16.—Although the speech-making plans of Senator LaFollette for the campaign have not been disclosed even in tentative form, aside from his engagement to deliver an address in Madison Square Garden, New York City, Thursday night, his friends here now expect him to start out on an extended stumping tour by October 1.

After his New York speech, the senator intends to remain in the metropolitan area for several days to discuss the political situation with various supporters. On his return to Washington he is expected to announce when and where he will speak during the remainder of the campaign.

Rochelle Egg Farm is Incorporated at Capital

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Springfield, Ill., Sept. 16.—The Rochelle Egg Farms of Rochelle was incorporated today to hatch and raise chickens and deal in chickens, eggs and poultry supplies. The capital stock was placed at $10,000 of which the following have been subscribed and paid in: W. B. Stouffer, Mt. Morris, $3,200; L. D. Wilcox, Rochelle, $1,320; A. L. ### Private Telegraph Call Aroused Sick Telegraph Official

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 16.—The ticking of a private Morse code call at an instrument by his bedside last night restored to consciousness J. T. Phelan, superintendent of the Dominion Telegraph Company here, after he had been in a comatose condition for nearly a week.

Superintendent Phelan was ill for weeks following the death of his wife and had been unconscious for six days, attending physicians disclosed today. On the suggestion of a physician an instrument was installed by Phelan's bedside and "P.N." his private call, ticked off. Mr. Phelan smiled and opened his eyes when the ticker announced "every day in every way."

Then the ticker suggested that Phelan drink a little milk. Phelan reached out his hand for the glass and took the first nourishment in six days.

He was reported convalescent today.

HEAVY TERM OF COURT CERTAIN SAYS EDWARDS

Seven Weeks of Jury Work in Prospect; Grand Jury Meets.

Milo J. "Bob" Stratton of this city was honored Monday afternoon in being chosen as foreman of the September grand jury, which body began its investigations at once. It was quite apparent today that the inquisitorial body would be in session until possibly late Thursday.

There were several witnesses waiting yesterday afternoon to appear before the grand jury. Among these were several residents of the village of Steward, who were thought to be witnesses in the Duce murder case.

Judge Harry Edwards, who is occupying the bench during this term, indicated that a heavy term was in prospect and that it would probably require about seven weeks of jury work to finish up the cases to be heard. He ordered that the docket be called Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, when the cases will be set.

But two naturalization cases were scheduled to be taken up in the circuit court this morning and a recess was taken this afternoon while Judge Edwards and several members of the local bar attended the funeral of the late Judge Ramsey at Morrison.

Wheeler Plans Attack on Dawes in Chicago Speech

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, Sept. 16.—Senator Wheeler of Montana, vice presidential candidate on the independent ticket, left New York last night, booked for the final lap of a stumping tour that will take him into every region of the United States where organization managers of the new political enterprise think they have prospect of success. The first stop for a speech, late tonight, will be Pittsburgh.

Thereafter, the senator is booked for five speeches in principal Ohio cities and addresses worked up during recent days indicated that his intention is to discuss the administration of former Attorney General Daugherty at considerable length before citizens of Mr. Daugherty's home state. Somewhat the same policy will be followed at his speaking dates in Illinois which begins with Chicago on September 20, except that General Dawes, republican vice presidential nominee, will be the target of criticism.

Pending a check-up on these, the President has not outlined his program for next month in the way of speech making. He has "informed" friends, however, that he expected to stick pretty close to his desk during the campaign.

FLIGHT WILL BE OVER SOUTH END OF COUNTY

Fog Caused Postponement of Trip Today; to Fly to Davenport, Ia.

Hundreds of northern Lee county citizens were disappointed this morning in their efforts to see the world fliers, who yesterday were scheduled to follow the U. S. mail aerial route from Chicago to Omaha, which would have taken them over Franklin Grove and Nelson.

The disappointment came first in the announcement that over night the fliers had changed their route and would fly on a bee line from Chicago to Davenport, Ia., which would take them over Paw Paw, south of Amboy, over Walnut and Tampico. The second disappointment came in the postponement of the hop until tomorrow morning because of extremely heavy fog near Chicago.

Over Tomorrow Morning
The fliers, it is announced will fly to Davenport tomorrow morning, if weather is favorable, leaving Chicago at 8 o'clock central standard time, and flying over Aurora, Paw Paw, Amboy, Walnut, Tampico and Yorktown. They will probably arrive over Lee county between 8:30 and 9 o'clock.

Hundreds of people of Dixon and vicinity, unaware that the flier route had been changed, went to the mail service flying fields at Nelson and Franklin Grove and spent the entire morning there, awaiting the heroes.

It will be necessary for Lee county folks who wish to see the aviators to journey to Amboy or some of the towns in the southern part of the county tomorrow.

TRIP POSTPONED

By Associated Press Leased Wire
U. S. Air Mail Field, Maywood, Ill., Sept. 16.—The 440 mile hop to Omaha, the next stage of the flight for the around the world fliers was postponed until 8 a. m. central standard time tomorrow, when at 11:51 a. m. today, Lieut. Lowell Smith, commanding, decided the weather conditions were too inclement to continue today.

Lieut. Smith awaited final word from the mail observation plane from Chicago at night. He would dislike to have a forced landing even in good weather, but more so in this kind.

"We are all mighty disappointed," Lieut. Smith said. "But we would rather be disappointed than sorry. Despite reports of fair weather farther west, the area immediately surrounding Chicago is too foggy to try and fly through it. We would dislike to have a forced landing even in good weather, but more so in this kind."

Fliers Disappointed.

The fliers were plainly disappointed when the lieutenant told them the hop was off until tomorrow. They superintended the taking of their ships from the field into the hangar and then departed for their hotel in Chicago.

"We got the ships this far and we certainly want to get them to the end of the route," Lieut. Smith said. "Neither because of poor visibility do we want to disappoint any of the folks along the line. This foggy condition seems to hang low and in poor weather safety lies in height."

The postponement will not affect the flying schedule as arranged for today, the lieutenant said, unless something unforeseen happens between now and the time they will take the air tomorrow. If conditions are favorable, on the other hand, he said it might be possible to circle over the Tri-Cities of Davenport, Ia., and Moline and Rock Island, Illinois. If they had flown today they would have passed over these cities flying on a straight course.

Lieut. Smith was shown the dispatch from Davenport, Iowa, about the false welcoming demonstrations there.

"This hurts me more than anything," he said. "I appreciated fully just how much the folks would be disappointed but in that disappointment we have a certain amount of satisfaction. It makes us feel they are anxious to

CRITICISM OF COURTS.

Long it has been recognized as a prerogative of a lawyer to "retire to the inn and curse the court." We have all assumed the same prerogative, at the inn and elsewhere. In fact at times it appears to be quite the popular thing to do. That is, we do that when we take a vacation from condemning congress. But, what are the circumstances that lead to most of the criticisms heaped on our courts?

How many times have you heard of murmurings because of the conviction of an innocent person?

How many times have you heard of judges being criticized because of imposing too severe a penalty?

We refer now to courts of record, not the magistrate who fined you on testimony of a policeman that you were going forty miles an hour when you are positive you were going only twenty.

The fact is that in ninety-nine cases of a hundred in which a "court" is criticized for its findings the cases have been those in which a jury of twelve men found the defendant not guilty. In late years often the cases have been those in which a woman has murdered a man.

Notwithstanding this situation are you ready to dispose of the jury system? Are you ready to put the matter up to a popular vote, even to a vote of congress? No. You are fearful that some time you may be the defendant, or that your son or brother or some other relative may be the defendant, if you are quite sure you will not be.

Our laws all have been made with a view strictly to safeguard the rights of the defendant. The guillotine is not many generations back. The French revolution came after the United States of America had become a settled fact. It came after our forefathers had established for us the principle of trial by a jury of our peers, a guarantee that our property should not be taken except by due process of law.

The guillotine might easily return if we dismember our constitution, removing one safeguard at a time, as now is being attempted by the men who believe in the Russian form of government. It is not a far cry from judicial action by congressional vote to judicial action by popular vote, or by popular notion in the absence of a vote.

What then becomes of all the safeguards placed about your offspring or your brothers or sisters, as defendants in courts of justice? We are not writing about the Loeb and Leopold case. It only comes to mind with the thought that the parents of these defendants probably never thought of their sons as defendants in a murder case.

We find much fault with delays in our courts, delays all made possible in interests of defendants.

Then, out of all this, we must conclude that our courts are not oppressive. It was oppression that our forefathers were determined should not become a part of our government. They safeguarded us as individuals against rule of the mob.

Our supreme court has no army under its command, with which to enforce its order, as has the executive. It has no purse, as has congress, with which to grant or withhold financing of its findings. It is the weakest branch of the three created by the constitutional convention. Only by acts of the other two can its decree be enforced at all.

Yet, it is this branch that is being assaulted by men of one of the other branches and their followers. They would make it not an independent tribunal, but would mix it up with congress, a body necessary in a republican form of government, but not wholly beyond public criticism.

The present danger is that criticism of courts may be capitalized by those who would capitalize it, because of thoughtlessness on the part of persons who never have reflected upon circumstances that have caused them to harbor such criticism.

CONFIDENCE.

Money in circulation totals over 4665 million dollars. Uncle Sam reports: Over a third of this is Federal Reserve paper money, much of which is backed only by commodities—warehouse stocks, carloads of bricks, etc.

We're gradually losing the gold and silver fetish, by the "elastic currency" route. It doesn't make any difference what's back of money, as long as the public has confidence in it. It was loss of public confidence, quite as much as printing gigantic amounts, that knocked the props from under German mark.

MYSTICISM.

There's an end to space. The universe is 228 million "light years" in diameter—a "light year" being an astronomical measurement six trillion miles long. Figures furnished by Professor Silberstein.

What's beyond the "end" of space? The scientific answer is that space is curved or spherical. No one can really comprehend into mysticism. Man approaches a comprehension of the spiritual that exists on the other side of the thin invisible wall.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 14—THE TWINS MAKE A VISIT

They all talked it over and over.

"The very idea," said Mister Snip Snap. "The very idea of Mrs. Cottontail saying that the shoes she bought for Cutie Cottontail were no good!"

"It's very queer!" said Nick. "Because she said she wanted good shoes for him to wear to school, so I got her the nicest one we had in the store with the copper toes and everything."

"Something must be wrong," said Nancy. "Well," said Mister Snip Snap thoughtfully, "I've heard of school being hard on heads sometimes, but it's the very first time in all my life that I've ever heard that it was hard on feet."

"They all talked it over and talked it over, and at last it was decided that something was wrong, very much wrong indeed, with Cutie Cottontail's new shoes."

Why they should wear into holes in such a short time nobody could think!

"I tell you Twins," said Mister Snip Snap. "You'll just have to go and visit the Meadow Grove School tomorrow and find out what makes Cutie Cottontail's shoes wear out."

So bright and early when the clock struck nine and Mister Scribble Scratch, the fairy schoolmaster, had finished calling the roll, Nancy and Nick arrived at the school in the woods and said they had come to visit.

"That's very nice," said Mister Scribble Scratch. "Sit right here and you can see everything. Make yourselves at home."

He set out two chairs and the Twins thanked him and sat down. They saw Cutie Cottontail first thing, in the first seat in the bird shot in from of the teacher's desk. They could see his shoes, too, and just as Mrs. Cottontail had said, they were certainly worn out.

"First we'll have spelling," said Mister Scribble Scratch, the fairy schoolmaster. "Put your headings on your slates, boys and girls."

All the little woods children began to write at once. Scamper Squirrel made his tongue go as fast as his pencil and Cobby Coon made his eyes go up and down, and Cutie Cottontail wriggled his ears, but nobody moved his feet scarcely during the whole lesson. And Mister Scribble Scratch called out ten words to write.

No! Spelling wasn't hard on shoes. That couldn't be the trouble at all! It must be something else.

"Well now have arithmetic," said Mister Scribble Scratch, putting five problems on the blackboard.

Slate pencils started to scratch again like rusty door hinges and such counting up as there was on fingers! But nobody used his feet much, so the Twins decided that it wasn't the number work that was wearing out Cutie's shoes, either.

Next they had reading, and everybody got to turn. Cutie read a line like this, "Cheer up, cheer up," said Mrs. Robin. "Cherries are ripe."

But all he did was to stand up and sit down again after he was through. Reading wasn't hard on shoes either. Then they sang a song and marched around the room once. But that couldn't hurt a pair of shoes any more than a fly could wear out a window pane.

It was still a mystery how Cutie Cottontail's shoes could be worn out so dreadfully after only three days of school.

I can't tell you, Sally dear, what a peculiar feeling I had when I went down on Hollywood boulevard the other day to do some shopping. It's an ordinary little city street. Most of the buildings are low, some of them quite artistic, and some of the bank buildings quite imposing. Sunset boulevard and even Santa Monica boulevard are in time going to be quite as busy streets. Yet I doubt if in the eyes of the thousand and one persons who step off the Santa Fe and other railroads entering Los Angeles each day, there is any other street than Hollywood boulevard.

These people, as I did, expect to see New York's famous Rialto transplanted out here in the foothills with all its dust and noise and tawdriness left behind. They expect the little street will retain all the essence of New York's theatrical atmosphere, all the echoes of its Bohemian gaiety, and all the whispers of its spicy scandal.

Hollywood boulevard! No other street in all the world passes the little white house on the outskirts of Kalamazoo, yet reaches to the edge of the gold mines and oil fields of Mexico.

No other thoroughfare climbs the hill at Mont Matre to Sacre Coeur, where all Paris can be seen below.

No other road crosses Main Street in Des Moines, Iowa, yet is traversed by the myriads of people in Peking.

No other highway in all the world is held up to criticism by a pulpiteer who knows nothing about it in the far-flung land dot always winter snows, or has its temptations pictured by impassioned orators with a Freudian complex of the repressed desires which multiply in the tropics.

In the lonesome places of the earth, Hollywood boulevard is known as the place where Gaiety and Love are continually passing on dancing feet.

In Hollywood anything can happen, and generally does—just as it happens in every other corner of the globe. But because the screen is a part of the amusement life of every city, every town, every hamlet, one comes to know the shadowy men and women that flit across it quite as well as one does one's nearest and dearest friends.

Living in Hollywood is like looking behind the scenes in the theater, where one always is disillusioned at finding carpenters, scene shifters, mechanics, electricians, doing the monotonous work which must be done even in the Land of Make Believe.

Already, Sally, I have found good friends and charming people among the moving picture colony. I think I am going to like it, but as yet I have only skirted along the outside, and of course you know your cautious old friend never makes up her mind until the thing has been well analyzed and a rational judgment deducted therefrom.

There, that sounds more like peevish old Bee, doesn't it? I love you, dear. Write me about everyone, especially Leslie.

CHAPTER XXI (continued)

And then her voice, crisp and steady, cut into his torture of consideration.

"Why did you deny him?" He swung round again to face her, amazed, horror-stricken.

"You understood?" he gasped.

"I understood enough," said she. "This lingua franca is none so different from French." And again she asked—

"Why did you deny him?"

He paced across to her side and stood looking down at her.

"Do you ask why?"

"Indeed," she said bitterly, "there is scarce the need perhaps. And yet can it be that your lust of vengeance is so insatiable that sooner than willingly forego an ounce of it you will lose your head?"

His face became grim again.

"Of course," he sneered, "it would be so that you'd interpret me."

"Nay. If I have asked it is because I doubt."

"Do you realize what it can mean to become the prey of Asad-ed-Din?"

She shuddered, and her glance fell from his, yet her voice was composed when she answered him—

"Is it so very much worse than becoming the prey of Oliver-Reis or Sakr-el-Bahr, or whatever they may call you?"

"If you say that it is all one to you there's an end to my opposing him," he answered coldly. "You may go to him. If I resisted him—like a fool, perhaps—it was for no sake of vengeance upon you. It was because the thought of it fills me with horror."

"Then it should fill you with horror of yourself no less," said she.

His answer startled her.

"Perhaps it does," he said scarcely above a murmur. "Perhaps it does."

She flashed him an upward glance and looked as if she would have spoken. But he went on, suddenly passionate, without giving her time to interrupt him.

"O God! It needed this to show me the villainess of the thing I have done. Asad has no such motives as had I. I wanted you that I might punish you. But he—O God! he groined, and for a moment put his face to his hands.

She rose slowly, a strange agitation stirring in her, her bosom galloping. But in his overwrought condition he failed to observe it. And then like a ray of hope to illumine his despair came the counsel that Fenzileh had given him, the barrier which she had said that Asad, being a devout Moslem, would never dare to violate.

"There is a way," he cried.

"There is the way suggested by Fenzileh at the promptings of her malice."

An instant he hesitated, his eyes averted. Then he made his plunge.

"You must marry me."

It was almost as if he had struck her. She recoiled. Instantly suspicion awoke in her; swiftly it grew to a conviction that he had but sought to trick her by a pretended solicitude.

"Marry you?" she echoed.

"Aye," he insisted.

And he set himself to explain to her how if she were his wife she must be sacred and inviolable to all good Moslems, that none could set a finger upon her without doing outrage to the Prophet's holy law, and that whoever might be so disposed Asad was not of those, since Asad was a perfervidly devout.

"Thus only," he ended, "can I place you beyond his reach."

But she was still scornfully reluctant.

"It is too desperate a remedy even for so desperate an ill," said she, and thus drove him into a frenzy of impatience with her.

"You must, I say," he insisted almost angrily. "You must—or else consent to be borne this very night to Asad's harem—and not even as his wife, but as his slave. Oh, you must trust me for your own sake! You must!"

"Trust you?" she cried, and almost laughed in the intensity of her scorn. "Trust you! How can I trust one who is a renegade and worse?"

He controlled himself that he might reason with her, that by cold logic he might conquer her consent.

"You are very unmerciful," he said. "In judging me you leave out of all account the suffering through which I have gone and what your self contributed to it. Knowing now how falsely I was accused and what other bitter wrongs I suffered, consider that I was one to whom the man and woman I most loved in all this world had proven false. I had lost faith in man and in God, and if I became a Moslem, a renegade, and a corsair, it was because there was no other gate by which I could escape the unutterable toll of the oar to which I had been chained."

He looked at her sadly. "Can you find no excuse for me in all that?"

It moved her a little, for if she maintained a hostile attitude, at least she put aside her scorn.

"No wrongs," she told him, almost with sorrow in her voice, "could justify you in outraging chivalry, in dishonoring your manhood, in abusing your strength to persecute a woman. Whatever the causes that may have led to it, you have fallen too low, sir, to make it possible that I should trust you."

He bowed his head under the rebuke which already he had uttered in his own heart. It was just and most deserved, and since he recognized its justice he found it impossible to resent it.

"I know," he said. "But I am not asking you to trust me to my profit, but to your own. It is for your sake alone that I implore you to do this."

Upon a sudden inspiration he drew the heavy dagger from his girdle and proffered it, hilt foremost.

"If you need an earnest of my good faith," he said, "take this knife with which tonight you attempted to stab yourself. At the first sign that I am false to my trust use it as you will—upon me or upon yourself."

She pondered him in some surprise. Then slowly she put out her hand to take the weapon, as he bade her.

"Are you not afraid," she asked him, "that I shall use it now and so make an end?"

"I am trusting you," he said, "that in return you may trust me. Further, I am arming you against the worst. For if it comes to choice between death and Asad, I shall approve your choice of death. But let me add that it were foolish to choose death whilst yet there is a chance of life."

"What chance?" she asked, with a faint return of her old scorn.

"The chance of life with you?"

"No," he answered firmly. If you will trust me I swear that I will seek to undo the evil I have done. Listen. At dawn my galleys sets out upon a raid. I will convey you secretly aboard and find a way to land you in some Christian country—Italy or France—whence you may make your way home again."

"But meanwhile," she reminded him, "I shall have become your wife."

He smiled wistfully.

"Do you still fear a trap? Can naught convince you of my sincerity? A Moslem marriage is not binding upon a Christian, and I shall account it no marriage. It will be no more than a pretense to shelter you until we are away."

"How can I trust your word in that?"

"How?" He paused, baffled; but only for a moment.

"You have the dagger," he answered pregnantly.

She stood considering, her eyes upon the weapon's vividly gleaming blade.

"And this marriage?" she asked.

"How is it to take place?"

He explained to her then that by the Moslem law all that was required was a declaration made before a kadi or his superior and in the presence of witnesses. He was still at his explanation when from below there came a sound of voices, the tramp of feet, and the flash of torches.

"Here is Asad returning in force," he cried, and his voice trembled. "Do you consent?"

"But the kadi?" she inquired, and by the question he knew that she was won to his way of saving her.

"I said the kadi or his superior. Asad himself shall be our priest, his followers our witnesses."

"And if he refuses? He will refuse!" she cried, clapping her hands before her in her excitement.

"I shall not ask him. I shall take him by surprise."

"It—it must anger him. He may avenge himself for what he must deem a trick."

"Aye," he answered, wild-eyed. "I have thought of that, too. But it is a risk we must run. If we do not prevail, then—"

"I have the dagger," she cried fearlessly.

"And for me there will be the rope or the sword," he answered.

"Be calm! They come!"

But the steps that pattered up the stairs were Asad's. He flung upon the terrace in alarm.

"My lord, my lord! Asad-ed-Din is here in force. He has an armed following with him!"

"There is naught to fear," said Sakr-el-Bahr, with every show of calm. "All will be well."

Asad swept up the stairs and out upon that terrace to confront his rebellious lieutenant. After him came a dozen black-robed janissaries with scimitars along which the light of the torches rippled in little runnels as of blood.

General Squier's patent on "wired wireless" are dedicated to the public according to the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York. The Court has dismissed the suit brought by General Squier against the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, for infringement, on the ground that General Squier's patents were dedicated by him to the public and are not, therefore, enforceable against the users of the inventions. Had General Squier prevailed in the suit, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company would have had to account for its use on millions of dollars worth of equipment forming part of its present installation.

The Armstrong and Westinghouse suits in the feed-back circuit has been thrown out of court. On motion of the defendants, Judge Knox of the U. S. District Court for the Southern District of New York, dismissed the bill of complaint in a suit brought by Armstrong and Company, and the Westinghouse Company, against the Secretary of the Navy, DeForest Company, American Telephone and Telegraph Company, General Electric Company and others. The purpose of the suit was to have the U. S. District Court review the ruling of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, that the feed-back circuit was the invention of De Forest—and not of Armstrong. The suit was dismissed on the ground of lack of jurisdiction and the legal battle will be fought out in the U. S. District Court of Delaware, where a similar suit has been brought by the United States, naming the other parties as defendants. The Government, during the war, acquired ownership of the Meissner circuit, an invention of a German, who is competing with DeForest and Armstrong as inventor of the feed-back circuit.

The New York Telegram-Mail says: "The limiting feature of distance reception with a super-heterodyne may be summed up in the one word 'Noise.' We could keep on amplifying indefinitely if it were not for the fact that tube noises and atmospheric interference hold us to a practical limit. Therefore it is of the utmost importance that our intermediate frequency amplifier should amplify this type of interference as little as possible. In other words, it should be a pure radio frequency amplifier and should not pass radio frequencies with increasing volume. Now, the higher the wave length which is used the lower the frequency becomes, gradually approaching an audible frequency. Accordingly, the higher the Suit by Hazeltine Neutrodyne interests against Freed-Eisemann Co., has been dismissed by the United States Court of the Eastern District of New York. This suit was brought to cancel Freed-Eisemann's Neutrodyne license but Hazeltine interests failed to convince the court. Freed-Eisemann's counter charge of fraud and misrepresentation and demand for reforming the license agreement, to relieve them from paying royalty on the entire Neutrodyne receiver and limit the royalty to the small parts patented by Hazeltine was ruled against by the Court. The Court further ordered Freed-Eisemann to pay all royalties in arrears, amounting to over one hundred thousand dollars with interest.

RICE'S HOTEL IN ELGIN WILL HAVE OVER 100 ROOMS

Excavation Has Been Completed for Fine New Hotel in That City.

The Elgin Daily News has the following story concerning the new hotel to be erected in that city by M. E. Rice, former landlord of the Nachusa Tavern in this city.

Elgin is to have a new hotel—a modern four-story structure, with a capacity of 125 rooms.

It will be erected at an estimated cost of $250,000.

Excavation has been completed at the site, the northeast corner of Douglas avenue, and Division street—and concrete work was started Monday.

The hotel is to be erected by M. E. Rice, owner of hotel building at Dixon, Sterling and Freeport, and Conrad F. Ackemann of Ackemann Brothers' store, and Elgin associates.

They have organized a stock company in which fifty per cent of the stock will be owned by Mr. Rice. The remaining fifty per cent will be owned by Mr. Ackemann and other Elgin business and professional men.

As designed by Mr. Rice, the hotel will front on Division street. There will also be an entrance off Douglas avenue. The building will be four stories high. The first two stories will be of dark brick, with white mortar. The upper two floors will be of kellestone. The roof will be of red tile.

The building will extend 117 feet on Division street and 71 feet on Douglas avenue. It will be 126 feet deep and will be erected in a "U" shape. The court will be about 40 feet wide.

Total of 125 Rooms

The site for the structure, familiarly known here as the old Yarwood property, has been purchased from Bernard Gertz. The latter secured the property about a year ago at which time it was announced it would be used for the location of an oil station.

Whether or not property adjoining the site is being negotiated for was not divulged.

The estimated cost, $250,000, it was stated, includes the purchase price of the site, erection and furnishing of the building. It was stated that approximately $50,000 will be expended for furnishings.

"We are going to erect a hotel building that will be an asset to the city," said Mr. Rice in announcing his plans. "The building will be practical and at the same time good looking."

"The first two stories will be of red brick with white mortar. The third and fourth floors will be kellestone. Plans call for a red tile overhanging roof. The windows will be artistically arranged with balconies."

In many respects the structure will resemble the Woodruff Inn at Joliet.

The structure will have a capacity

NO LONGER A POOR SHOPGIRL

Once upon a time not so very long ago, Edmonde Guy was a poor shopgirl in the Montmartre district of Paris. But she became known far and wide for her beauty, and she was offered a stage career. Then, recently, she won 100,000 francs at the Deauville lacocrat table.

of 125 rooms, eighty-eight of which will be equipped with baths. There will be thirty-six rooms with tubs, eighteen with showers and twenty-four others with bath connections.

There will be telephone accommodations in each room. Elevator service has also been arranged.

House Five Shops.

As planned, there will be a forty by forty foot lobby with the main entrance off Division street. Opening on Douglas avenue will be a ten-foot corridor.

The main floor will house nine shops, three of which will open in Douglas avenue. In addition there will be a coffee shop, a main dining hall and a ball room forty by forty feet. A stage will be erected at one end of the ball room.

The second, third and fourth floors will be identically the same number of rooms being located on each.

The structure will be under roof by January 1, and will be ready for occupancy about April 1.

According to Mr. Rice the place will be elaborately furnished. No expense is to be spared in making the hotel as homelike as possible.

Mr. Rice, who will make Elgin his home, will operate the hotel. He is now owner of the Nachusa Tavern at Dixon, Lincoln Tavern at Sterling and the Senate hotel at Freeport.

Elgin interests in the enterprise are headed by Conrad F. Ackemann, of Ackemann Brothers' store. Mr. Ackemann has been one of the city's most enthusiastic boosters for a new hotel for several years.

The name of the new hotel is yet to be decided. Among those being considered, however, are "Hford Hotel" and "Fox Tavern."

HOG CHOLERA HAS MADE APPEARANCE IN HAMILTON TWP.

Farm Bureau Co-operating in Efforts to Stamp Out the Disease.

Numerous serious outbreaks of hog cholera have been reported from Hamilton Township following an outbreak on a farm where no quarantine measures were put into effect. It is reported that the disease was done on the farm after this, although the farmer knew that cholera was on the place. Naturally a number of the neighbors carried the cholera to their farms and other outbreaks occurred, although this farmer might have cautioned his neighbors about his own outbreak, says a Lee County Farm Bureau statement. In one instance almost 100 hogs were lost that might have been saved with proper precautions.

Vaccination in Demand

As soon as it was known that cholera was in the neighborhood a number of farm Bureau members took steps to have their herds immunized. The Lee County Farm Bureau office furnished serum and virus and demonstrated the method of vaccination to a number of farmers in this community. Thus far we have heard of no further outbreak although farmers who have not vaccinated are especially urged to watch closely their herds as still better to immunize them a once, the statement continues.

Advised Precaution

Now that the disease has been completed in a number of communities farmers should not postpone vaccinating their spring pigs until further outbreaks of cholera occur, according to recommendations by the Farm Bureau. Many farmers have hesitated to vaccinate when hog prices were so low in price but now that grain and hogs are both considerably higher it is cheap insurance to immunize the herds. It seldom costs more than 25 to 30 cents to vaccinate spring pigs even at this time of the year when the farmer does his own work with Farm Bureau serum and virus, and this is indeed cheap protection against this dread disease.

JIMMY MURPHY,
RACE DRIVER, IS KILLED IN WRECK

Body is Being Taken to
His Old Home Near Los Angeles, Calif.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 15.—The roar of racing motors and the hum of busy speedways has died down today for Jimmy Murphy. The body of the champion automobile driver who met death in a 150 mile contest on the New York State Fair Grounds track yesterday was being borne back across the continent to the home in Vernon, Calif., which he had known from early boyhood.

With Murphy on his last ride were Jimmy Murphy's drivers
against whom he had pitted his skill in his last race—and to whom he had lost. Before the race these drivers—and Murphy—had arranged to take the train on which they finally did leave.

When the time for departure came at 12:25 o'clock this morning, it was a sad little group which gathered in the train shed of the New York Central Station here, and with bowed heads watched the copper casket of their friend and comrade placed aboard the baggage car of the Lake Shore Limited, while they entered a car farther back.

In Chicago Late Today
On arrival in Chicago at 4 o'clock this afternoon, the casket will be transferred at once to the Santa Fe, Murphy's favorite route, and to be continued on to his home state. Arrival in Los Angeles is scheduled for early Friday afternoon when Murphy's body will be taken to the home of his uncle, Judge Martin O'Donnell
in Vernon, a suburb of Los Angeles.
It was this place which Jimmy Murphy had known as home since the death of his parents in the San Francisco earthquake, 18 years ago.

Tommy Milton, one of the closest of Murphy's friends, among the drivers, remained here to close up Murphy's affairs and take charge of property to be shipped back to his home.
Milton will leave late today.

The exact cause of the accident which resulted in Murphy's death probably will never be known. It was established however, that he had been hugging the inside fence of the dirt track when his machine struck the wooden fence at a speed of 80 miles an hour. A splinter was driven into Murphy's breast. He was taken to a hospital where he died.

WASHINGTON LOST
ONE GAME LEAD;
YANKS EVEN UP

Pirates Continue Real Threat of Giants in National League.

The Yankees and Giants, defendants in baseball's Trojan war, enjoy the smiles of the watching gods today
in their efforts to retain the game's prize, the world's series.

Forced from their position by Washington, the Yanks took the field and yesterday went into a tie with Washington for first prize by winning from Chicago 2-0.

The Senators lost their second consecutive game to the Tigers who made a clear gain of one contest and are now only four games behind the two leaders. The score was also 2-0.

At the National League gate the Giants face a double problem—the Robins who strike from within and the Pirates ship, which approaches in the harbor without. Both Robins and Giants rested yesterday.

The advancing Buccaneers completed their sack of Boston yesterday by winning the third straight game 4-3 in 12 innings and will attempt to advance upon this baseball metropolis through Philadelphia. Pittsburgh gaining a half game on both, "now trais the Robins by one and one half games and the Giants by two and one half. They have 16 games to play.
New York has 13 and Brooklyn 11.

The deciding battles yesterday with the contending teams concentrating upon every pitched ball were closely fought. The grim Yankee veterans, taking advantage of previous experience, converted two bases on balls into the runs necessary to win from Chicago and won the victory on four hits. Dugan's fielding and Jones' pitching prevented the White Sox
from tying on two occasions.

Washington lost its precious game lead through inability to hit Rip Collins. Babe Adams, world series hero of 15 years ago, who has come back from the baseball grave to steady his youthful mates, left the game at Boston for a pinch hitter in the seventh inning and Morrison retained
the advantage scored by Pirate bats
in that frame and in the 12th.
The Browns defeated the Red Sox 4-3 in the only game played among the distanced clubs in both leagues.
It was the final contest between the two for the season. Each won eleven.

FRANK CHANCE,
BASE BALL STAR,
DIED SUDDENLY

"Peerless Leader" is Taken at Hospital in Los Angeles.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Los Angeles, Calif., Sept. 16.—
Frank Chance, 47, the California
banker's son, whose brilliant baseball career won him the sobriquet of the "Peerless Leader" of the national game, is dead today. He faded quietly into unconsciousness and death at a hospital here last night after a long uphill battle against failing health.

Chance, who led the Chicago Cubs to four National League pennants and two world series victories and managed at various times the Boston
Americans, the New York Americans and the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast League, was manager of the Chicago White Sox when he died.

He went east last winter to take over the reins of the Chicago club but came down with influenza. He was advised to return to the coast for a rest. This he did, returning in time for the initial game between Chicago and New York. Illness overtook him again however, and in a few weeks,
he was back in Southern California,
fighting his game against overwhelming odds. Yesterday he died.

Chance is survived by his widow,
his mother, Mrs. Harvey Chance of Palo Alto, a sister and three brothers.
Funeral arrangements were expected to be completed today.

Sixteen Matches to be

French Lick, Ind., Sept. 16.—(By the Associated Press)—Sixteen matches at 36 holes will be played today over the championship course at French Lick by the 32 golfers who survived yesterday's elimination rounds in the Professional Golf Association with a score of 150 or better. Among the contenders were the defending champion, Gene Sarazen of New York who was paired in the lower half of the draw with Fred McLeod of Washington, a former national open champion who tied at 150 for the last five places.
Sarazen finished in seventh place
among the qualifiers with 142 strokes.

CAMPAIGN WEDNES.
FOR DIXON LEGION'S
FOOTBALL ELEVEN

Fourteen Games Scheduled for Coming Season; To Open Next Sunday.

Representative business men of Dixon will start out tomorrow on a campaign in the interest of the American Legion football team, whose season will open next Sunday afternoon.
The members of the team have been practicing hard for several weeks, working off the rough edges and getting ready for the biggest season in the history of the organization.

Business men have offered their support by selling season tickets for the team. Fourteen games will be played, according to the present schedule and the season tickets which will be sold for $9 will admit the buyers to 12 games. The team members of the curtain on the 1924 season next Sunday when they will clash with the Polish Falcons, said to be the strongest team in Rockford this year. The Legion band will be present and furnish a concert preceding the game
and between the periods.

With his withdrawal, Coach Risley
announces the addition of Paul "Monk" Lazier of Steward, former star of the Rochelle back field, whose toe has taken the honors away from Dixon on more than one occasion.
Lazier will doubtless perform at the full back position.

Warren County Sow is Mother of Ton-Litter

Urbana, Ill.—M. D. Bradshaw, a pure bred Poland China breeder living near Smithshire, Warren county, has the honor of being the owner of the litter of pigs which will go down in the official records as the first ton litter to be produced in Illinois in 1924, according to an announcement today by W. N. Smith, state leader of farm advisers at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, who has charge of the Illinois Ton Litter club.

Members of the club attempt to make each litter of pigs which they enter weigh at least a ton by the time the animals are six months old and Mr. Bradshaw is the first breeder to meet the requirement this year.
The object of the club, which is sponsored by the agricultural college and farm advisers of the state, is to demonstrate the worth of good breeding, proper feeding and the right kind of management in getting pigs ready for the market at an early age in an economic way.

Mr. Bradshaw's litter contained 11 pigs and weighed 130 pounds when the animals were 130 days old, according to Farm Adviser A. A. Olsen, who has charge of the club in Warren county. Up until the last 60 days of the feeding period the porkers got only ear corn and water soaked oats.

At that time tankage was added to the ration, the animals being given all that they would clean up nicely night and morning. They also had access to Sudan grass pasture.
The litter was brought along in fine shape, although it could have been pushed for a much greater weight had it not been for the fact that Mr. Bradshaw did not want to get the pigs too fat, Mr. Olsen said.
"He did not care to see how fat he could get them but wanted to make a ton of pork cheaply in six months."

FATHER, THY WILL BE DONE

He sendeth sun, He sendeth shower,—
Alike they're needful for the flower;
And joys and tears alike are sent
To give the soil fit nourishment.
As comes to me or cloud or sun,
Father! Thy will, not mine, be done.

Can loving children e'er reprove
With murmurs whom they trust and love?
Creator, I would ever be
A trusting, loving child to Thee;
As comes to me or cloud or sun,
Father! Thy will, not mine, be done.

Oh, ne'er will I at life repine;
Enough that Thou hast made it mine.
When falls the shadow cold of death,
I yet will sing with parting breath,
As comes to me or shade or sun,
Father! Thy will, not mine, be done.

—Sarah Flower Adams.

SONNET

Oh, how much more doth beauty beautiful seem,
By that sweet ornament which truth doth give!
The rose looks fair, but fairer we it deem
For that sweet odor which doth in it live.
The canker blooms have full as deep a dye,
As the perfumed tincture of the roses;
Hang on such thorns, and play as wantonly
When summer's breath their masked buds discloses,
But for their virtue only is their show,
They live unwood'd, and unrespected fade;
Die to themselves. Sweet roses do not so;
Of their sweet deaths are sweetest odors made:
And so of you, beautiful and lovely youth,
When they shall fade, my verse distills your truth.

—William Shakespeare.

SONG OF FAIRIES

We, the fairies, blithe and antic,
Of dimensions not gigantic,
Though the moonshine mostly keep us,
Oft in orchards frisk and peep us.
Stolen sweets are always sweeter;
Stolen kisses much completer;
Stolen looks are nice in chapels;
Stolen, stolen be your apples.
When to bed the world is bobbing,
Then's the time for orchard robbing;
Yet the fruit were scarce worth peeling,
Were it not for stealing, stealing.

—Leigh Hunt.

A LAMENT

O World! O Life! O Time!
On whose last steps I climb,
Trembling at that where I had stood before,
When will return the glory of your prime?
No more—oh never more!
Out of the day and night
A joy has taken flight:
Fresh spring, and summer, and winter hoar
Move my faint heart with grief, but with delight.
No more—oh never more.

—Percy Bysshe Shelley.

THE KNIGHT'S TOMB

Where is the grave of Sir Arthur O'Kellyn?
Where may the grave of that good man be?
By the side of a spring, on the breast of Helvellyn,
Under the twigs of a young birch tree!
The oak that in summer was sweet to hear,
And rustled its leaves in the fall of the year,
And whistled and roar'd in the winter alone,
Is gone,—and the birch in its stead is grown.
The knight's bones are dust,
And his good sword rust;
His soul is with the saints, I trust.

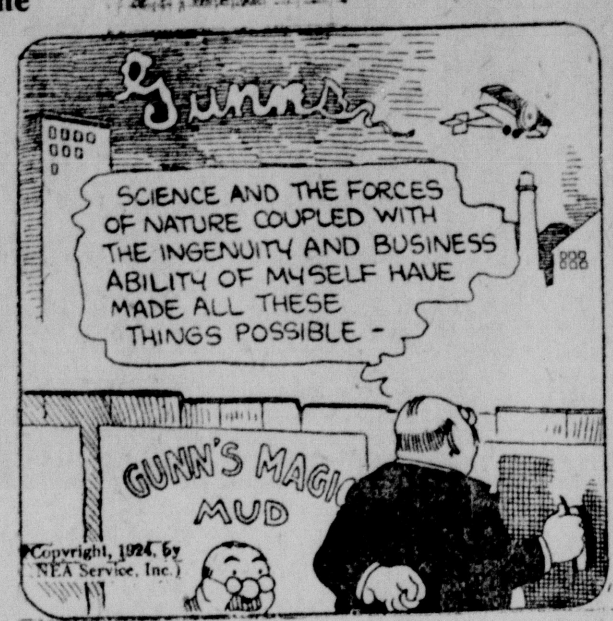

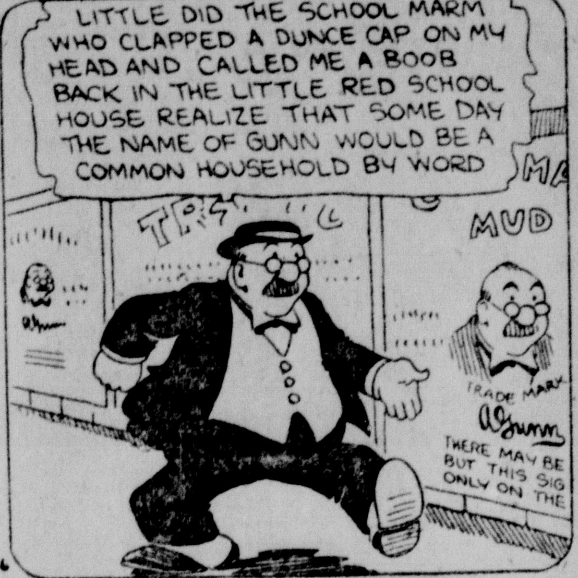

—Samuel Taylor Coleridge.

A JOKE VERSIFIED

"Come, come," said Tom's father, "at your time of life,
There's no longer excuse for thus playing the rake—
It is time you should think, boy, of taking a wife."
"Why, so it is, father—whose wife shall I take?"

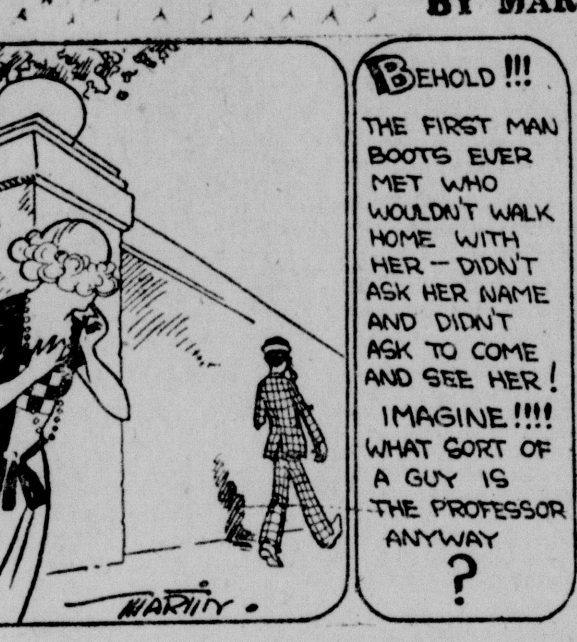

—Thomas Moore.

The WELL-DRESSED MAN

Invented By Lord Raglan

You would hardly look for romance in a top coat, but you will find it in the Raglan. It is named after Lord Fitzroy James Henry Somerset Raglan, English Field Marshal in the Crimean War. He was a recognized international authority upon military dress. Serving in his youth as aide-de-camp to the Duke of Wellington, he left an empty sleeve upon the battlefield of Waterloo, but invented a seamless one upon the Raglan top coat the fame of which is now worldwide. Indeed, the Raglan, like the Chesterfield, named after Lord Chesterfield, is a standard type of overgarment not affected by the fluctuations of fashion.

Every well-dressed man should have a Raglan, because it occupies a niche in his wardrobe that no other top coat quite fills. Its characteristic freewheeling, swivel-sleeve construction gives unimpeded arm-play and shoulder-sway, whereas the ordinary overcoat with set-in sleeves is prone to bind in reaching. The Raglan is always a loose-draping, box-back garment with full-fold, gathered skirts and a deep flip-up collar, as pictured in the accompanying sketch. It may have slanting or vertical pockets or patch pockets with flaps, and, usually, the cuffs are turned up. Three and four buttons are variously used. The length for a man of average height is roundabout 45 inches.

It has become quite a fad among collegians and the legions who take their cue in dress from the university man to wear the collar of the overcoat turned up and the brim of the hat turned down, as illustrated here. This is supposed to lend a rough-and-rakish appearance which hints of brown-and-biceps. One should, however, be youngish to adopt this foible, because it looks a bit silly if belied by one's years.

Colorings in the top coats are very much bolder than they used to be; more in tune with the "cheerier" spirit of the times. Pale tans, blues, grays and Lovats predominate in the Autumn showing. There are also many overchecks, revealing dark patterns upon a light background. To be sure, the question of color and pattern in clothes is one that must always be left to individual taste and becomingness. It is not an affair of propriety, but of preference; something that rests between the wearer and the mirror.

DISORDER IN BIG MANCHURIAN TOWN CAUSE OF PROTEST

Japanese Police Held in Readiness to Preserve Order in the City.

Shanghai, Sept. 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Armies of rival military governors fighting for possession of Shanghai, battled with renewed force on all sectors this morning when the end of a storm and reappearance of sunshine, became a signal for general resumption of warfare.

JAPAN FILES PROTEST

Tokio, Sept. 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Disorder and unrest in the forces of General Chang Tso Lin stationed at Mukden, principal city of Manchuria, have resulted in a strong protest from the Japanese consul general there, according to reports received here today by the Japanese foreign office.

Press dispatches received here say that as a result of the situation, the Japanese consular police are held in readiness for action at Mukden and that Japanese troops may be called to preserve order.

The Chang Tso Lin troops are concentrated at Mukden to move south towards Peking for an attack on the forces of the central government in Chihli province, headed by Wu Pei Fu.

Dissension in the forces of Chang Tso Lin, as indicated in the Tokio dispatch, would be a new factor in favor of the central government forces about to defend Peking. The underlying cause of the Mukden turbulence was not indicated.

MOVE ON JAP RAILWAY

Tokio, Sept. 15.—(By the Associated Press)—The Associated Press learns that a portion of the troops of General Chang Tso Lin have already moved and are still moving by way of the Japanese South Manchuria railway, presumably from the province of Kirin and from Antung in Sinkiang, toward Mukden.

It is authoritatively stated that the Tokyo government views this as "a matter of railway business" and as not amounting to Japanese aid for General Chang, which is not Japan's intention.

It is explained that the usual pro-

With ROOSEVELT IN AFRICA

by W. Robert Foran

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Robert Foran, newspaper correspondent, accompanied the Theodore Roosevelt expedition into Africa in 1909. They arrived at Mombasa, the "gateway of British East Africa," and then made the railroad journey to their first camp on the game-crowded Kapiti Plains, 288 miles from the coast. With Colonel Roosevelt are his son, Kermit, and three scientific members of his staff—Major A. Morans, Edmund Heller and Allen Loring.

Incredible good luck comes to the rifles of Colonel Roosevelt and Kermit during the first two weeks of their sojourn. At Nairobi a reception is given in honor of Colonel Roosevelt by Sir Frederick Jackson, the acting governor. While Roosevelt and Kermit are mingling with the guests, Foran goes to look for the three naturalists.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

They were nowhere to be seen in the ball-room, so I wandered out into the beautiful gardens that surround the official residence of the governor. I knew that they would most probably be found searching for birds and small mammals. My diagnosis was quite correct. They were finally discovered enjoying the still night and eagerly hunting for new specimens for their collection. Social functions bored them; but natural history did not. They never allowed any opportunity to capture new species to escape them.

Means was standing beneath a big tree trying to catch the dulcet notes of birds who had been awakened by the military band. Heller and Loring were intently engaged upon catching some of the many bats which flitted hither and thither in the moonlit ground of Government House. The regulation evening clothes of civilization made their efforts appear somewhat incongruous, perhaps; but neither scientist appeared to be aware of the fact.

On another night, the Roosevelts accompanied the Government House party to an amateur performance, the "Nairobi Follies," in the Railway Institute in the center of the town. The program consisted of two parts—the first, a minstrel entertainment with topical songs, all written by local officials of the government, with many humorous allusions to the guest of honor; and the second, a playlet entitled "Bluebeard in East Africa," which had been written by local dramatists. Theodore Roosevelt's hearty laugh was frequently heard well above that of the remainder of the audience, and he appeared particularly to enjoy the many topical songs that related to himself.

Two of the songs are well worth reproducing. The words were written by Benjamin Eastwood, the chief auditor of the Uganda Railway, in conjunction with A. J. Monson, the chief secretary of the government. The first one to evoke Theodore Roosevelt's laughter, was sung to the tune of "A Gay Tom-Tit" from the "Gaiety" and was entitled "Fells Leo." The words were as follows:

A lion lurked in his lonely lair, As African lions do, For he liked to be where he could get a share

Of a nice little buck, with a stroke of luck, In our wonderful nature's zoo.

His large inside he nightly fed with zebras or hartbeests instead, "There isn't a scrap of doubt," said he,

"This diet's exceedingly good for me, 'For I grow fat, fat, fatter, 'What on earth does it mat, mat, matter,

"If the way that I creep on the beasts in their sleep, 'Makes the poor things scart, scart, scart?"

He hunted game in the moonlight bright, With never a thought of harm;

In between the social rounds of the American press at not having been able to accompany the Roosevelts on their hunting trips.

This particular song was entitled "E. E. A. (with apologies to Rudyard Kipling)" and was rendered to the tune of "Mandalay." The words of the chorus follow:

Yes he shut out all the press And he left them there to guess. They raved, and growled, and grumbled, They were left in such a mess.

But that's all passed and done with, For they were not far away; And their news is scattered broadcast

Over all the world today, Still he sent in news one Tuesday— It is nice to be polite— But the New York papers had it On the previous Sunday night.

Oh! it really was a frost, And one finds it to one's cost If one tries to balk the press-men, One is very often lost!

This song was as much enjoyed by the Roosevelts as it was by the newspaper men present.

The Roosevelts, father and son, were the guests of the governor for the first three days while in Nairobi, and then they moved over to McKim's town house to join the three naturalists and "R. J." It was a fine stone building standing in extensive and pretty grounds. It was most comfortably furnished, and provided exceptionally roomy quarters for all of the party.

It was a fine stone building standing in extensive and pretty grounds. It was most comfortably furnished, and provided exceptionally roomy quarters for all of the party.

In between the social rounds of gality, Colonel Roosevelt worked industriously on his book about his adventures and was able, in the peace of rural Parklands—the growing suburb of Nairobi—to bring up to date all his articles, which task would have been a physical impossibility while on safari.

Frequently during those crowded days, I was invited to lunch or dine with the Roosevelts, and the general topic of conversation was always concerned with the game of East Africa or the immense future possibilities of the country.

One evening, after dinner, Theodore Roosevelt was discussing with Hinde, the commissioner of the Ukamba province, the all-important question of immigration to East Africa.

"I firmly believe in the future of this great country for European settlement," asserted Roosevelt, with marked emphasis. "You have regions that are best suited to the requirements of white men; others that are only suitable for Indians and Africans. It is a matter purely of climatic conditions. In some areas the whites can live and settle permanently, as where there is any possibility for them to come into open rivalry with the Europeans."

On the afternoon of Sunday, May 20, Colonel Roosevelt took Kermit, Dawson and myself out to visit the Roman Catholic mission at Kikuyu. It is conducted by the French fathers, and is situated some three miles outside of Parklands, suburb of Nairobi.

We spent a very interesting hour or so at the mission, and were taken all over the estate and buildings by the good fathers in charge. There was a convent school attached to the mission, and Colonel Roosevelt appeared to be much interested in the fact that amongst the pupils—who were the children of European settlers—were a few Parsi children. They were the only exception to the rule that it was a school for European children only. The mission also owned a splendid coffee estate—they had been the pioneers in coffee-growing in East Africa—the trees of which were most prolific in their yield of berries.

As we drove back to Nairobi in the cool of the evening, I asked Colonel Roosevelt what had been his impressions.

"I must confess to great admiration for the work of all missions in Africa," he said, with conviction in his tones. "There is something very fine in the manner they all quietly and unobtrusively go to work, without pressing their convictions and religion too persistently upon the natives of the country in which they labor."

"I like to see them teaching the natives useful arts and crafts, such as we have just witnessed. Eventually the natives will realize that these missionaries are wise and good people; and then they will be ready to follow them. Their progress must be slow; but if it is slow, it is also sure. That is the most lasting form of progress."

CHAPTER VI

Pioneers of Two Continents

WE had left Nairobi at midday on June 2nd by special train for Kijabe, from whence the Roosevelts would start forth on their first prolonged safari into the wilds of Africa. We arrived at our destination just before sunset.

Poor Vision May Cause

Backwardness of Child

Springfield, Ill.—Backward children in the public schools are not necessarily unintelligent, in the opinion of Dr. Isaac D. Rawlings, state health director. The trouble may be poor vision, poor hearing or bad tonsils, he says.

"Out of 78,053 first year pupils in the Chicago schools, for example, 19,382 could not see normally, 15,324 could not hear distinctly, and even a larger number were suffering from bad dental and throat conditions," Dr. Rawlings said. "Correcting physical defects frequently leads to converting the backward pupil into a bright, normal child."

GEN. HINES GIVES LEGION CREDIT FOR AIDING HIS BUREAU

Says Veterans Bureau is Cleaned Up But Attacks Impend.

St. Paul, Minn. Sept. 15.—The United States Veterans Bureau "has been cleaned up," but it "cannot take another forward step unless public confidence in our work is preserved by a cessation of turmoil and baseless calumny," declared General Frank T. Hines, director of the Bureau, in an address today before the convention of the American Legion.

General Hines complimented the Legion for responding to his appeal for its "wholehearted cooperation," and lauded "unselfishly an active and intelligent cooperation of the highest degree of helpfulness."

"I think," said General Hines, "that never before has it been so necessary for us all to form a just and true appreciation of what has lately been accomplished and then to see to it by every means in our power, that the people of the United States have an understanding knowledge of the great work that has been done for the men disabled by service in time of war."

See Coming Attack.
"I find the air is at this moment full of prejudices and rumors that attacks will shortly again be made upon the Veterans Bureau, that propaganda of a certain sort is in preparation for use in aid of purposes not at all connected with the interests of the ex-service men and that publicity campaigns are projected in which it is intended to drag out the mistakes and errors of the past, before you and I put our shoulders to the wheel, and so to visit, as it were, the sins of the fathers upon the children of the third and fourth generation."

Trouble Dates From Beginning.
"You and I know very well there was at one time something amiss in the United States Veterans Bureau—that until lately there was always something considerably wrong with the administration of its affairs. The roots of those troubles lay far back in the beginning, when these government agencies were hastily organized under the stress of actual war fare, imperfectly through out, inefficiently manned and administered, and illogically and spasmodically developed in times of peace."

Nothing Fundamentally Wrong.
"If it shall be said that there is anything fundamentally wrong with the Veterans Bureau now such a statement shall be untrue. I am not so foolish as to suggest that the administration of veteran relief is now a perfect thing; it never can be that and never will; but we can say—for it is true itself—that an enormous stride has been taken."

All Veterans Are Received.
"All available government hospital facilities have been thrown open to veterans of any war or military occupation expedition since the beginning of the Spanish-American War, without asking whether their ailments were due to service or not, or brought about by their own misconduct or not, so long as that the veteran is in need of hospital treatment and the government has the hospital to treat him in."

"We have solved the rehabilitation. Up to July 1, 1921 only five thousand men had been rehabilitated. Since then more than 75,000 have been rehabilitated, over 60,000 of them with-

WIN SINGING HONORS

FRANCES PAPERTE

VIRGINIA REA

Two American girls, Virginia Rea, who hails from Louisville, Ky., and Frances Paperte of Coloma, Wis., were the recent winners in auditions for soloists held by the Stadium concerts in New York City.

They were the only two singers chosen from 500 who tried out for the coveted honor of appearing with the Philharmonic Orchestra at these famous open-air concerts.

Both are American born and American trained and they won in a contest which included singers from all parts of the United States as well as many European vocalists.

Miss Paperte entered the contest in a spirit of fun and was delightedly surprised when she was selected.

"A friend of mine had entered," she explains, "and I went with her. She was so nervous she asked me to sing—probably on the principle that misery loves company—and that's how it happened."

NEW YORK — New York stage door John—the brave young blades who wait expectantly and with well filled pocketbooks for the footlight beauties—are more ardent in their midnight trysts than their English brothers of London, according to three chorus members of a British musical revue whom I interviewed last night.

The English girls, pretty and far better dancers, as a group, than American chorines, have been here for months, so their observations are interesting.

"In London," they related, "if a boy out front takes a shine to a girl in the show, he modestly sends notes in candy and flowers for at least two months before he would dare brave a stage door meeting."

Then to contrast the situation, "But here in New York, the dashing American boys, rush up, take you by the arm, and say 'I like your looks; you'll like me when you know me better; come quick, let's waive no time becoming acquainted.'"

The strange part, they confided, the American boys with their strenuous methods are very frequently successful in their stage door raids on the English girls.

"We like them heaps; we think they are very amusing."

"Under their bluster, veneer the American boys are very conventional—far more so than English men. Why, they are very proper about when and where girls smoke cigarettes."

Sing Sing prisoners often are permitted leave to attend a funeral.

In the past two years and 40,000 others are in the course of complete training."

It probably is the most sincere and dependable tribute paid the visiting musician since no man is faultless in the eyes of his valet or chauffeur or masseur.

I talked with the Prince's chauffeur for 30 minutes but he was sworn to secrecy concerning intimate details. Just a good chauffeur.

The Prince appears to be as bored as American crowds are excited to get even a fleeting glimpse of him. He probably would give many dollars to spend a week in a one-room flat in Harlem.

The other day a thin woman with a ragged fur collar and a small child hung before the gate of the Prince's American home. She was Mrs. Katherine Tudor Vermillion who claims to be the last living descendant of Henry VIII of England and the ruling family of Tudor. Admittance was refused her.

At Belmont Park race track the Prince walked on forbidden ground. A track attendant ordered him away. The Prince smiled good naturedly and left.

Even a Prince respects efficiency.

It reminds of the time in Indianapolis when Carl G. Fisher famous sportsman and one of the three owners of the great automobile speedway, attempting to walk across the track of his race course during practice.

"You can't go in there," he was told by a guard.

"But I own most of this track," he answered.

"Go tell it to the manager," said the guard as he edged Fisher gateward.

That same day the guard's salary was increased and his future assured.

"Dice get hot," is a prayerful plea of those addicted to shuffling speckled cubes.

But Lawrence Hirschbach warned his dice so much in a game the other day they caught fire and started a blaze that threatened his home.

New York may josh about the wide open spaces where men are men and they still wear rubber collars. But

The other day, a 20-year-old lifer, sentenced for murder at 17, was given a day's freedom for the funeral of his mother.

It will be his last day outside prison walls. His father also is dead and he has no brothers or sisters.

Raymond Beck, who a few years ago was a choir singer and known as the "Angel-Faced Kid," has outgrown his title.

He has been arrested charged with grand larceny and felonious assault. There is no trace of the "Angel Face" any more. He is hard boiled.

"The Prince is a great guy." That is the tribute paid the Prince of Wales by his chauffeur.

1700 BABIES IN ATTENDANCE ILL. FAIR THIS YEAR

Awards for Perfection to Be Presented By Governor Small.

Springfield, Ill.—Babies feature the state fair this year. More than 1650 are scheduled to attend. They hail from 51 counties and are offered as the best in the state. Their business will be to capture the "perfect baby" awards which will be presented by Governor Small to those of the greatest physical excellence. Each of the children will undergo an exhaustive, scientific physical and mental examination, given by expert medical members from the staff of the state department of public health, who are veterans of hundreds of well baby conferences.

"Always popular, the state fair baby conference is a mammoth institution in itself this year," declared Dr. Isaac D. Rawlings, state health director. "Registration surpasses that of any previous year by nearly 500. The last day for entry had to be advanced a full week to avoid excessive registration while scores of applications had to be rejected because of delayed receipts. The situation is without precedent in Illinois and indicates a pronounced and wholesome confidence in public health procedures."

"The well baby conference is without doubt one of the most practical means yet devised for doing fine public health work. It brings into favorable contact the mother who seeks reliable information on child care and representatives of the best medical talent in that important field. Stronger, healthier babies and children is the result."

"The state fair conference is but one of scores of well baby conferences conducted under the direction of state health officials. Since January nearly 100 have been held in various parts of the state. Approximately 10,000 children will have been examined before Christmas. The movement is apparently permanent and is so regarded by public health workers throughout Illinois."

HOME FURNISHING. CENTER LIGHTS FOR PARTIES

Ceiling fixtures in living rooms are kept unlighted nowadays, except for gay parties and other social occasions. Otherwise, the lamps and side fixtures should illuminate the room pleasantly enough, especially with the use of the soft amber lights so popular today.

AN OPEN LETTER TO WOMEN

Tells of Mrs. Vogel's Terrible Suffering and how she was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan.—"My troubles were severe pains in my back and terrible bearing-down pains in my right side, also headaches and sleepless nights. I first began having troubles when I was 15, and they have increased as I grew older. A little booklet was left at my door, and I read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women and decided to try it. After the first week I could go to sleep every night and I stopped having that nervous feeling and got a better appetite. The doctor had always said that an operation was the only thing that would help me, but I never had any faith in an operation. Since the Vegetable Compound has started helping me I do not suffer the severe pains, feel stronger, and am able to do my own work. I am more than glad to tell my friends that it helps where other medicines have failed."

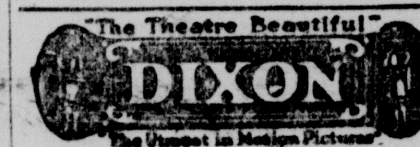

—Mrs. GRS VOGEL, 6808 Pelouze St., Detroit, Michigan.
A record of fifty years service must convince women of the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
